

REV. O'CONNELL HELD.

Ten-Year-Old Dora Weber Tells Her Story of a Cruel Assault.

The Clergyman's Muddled Condition Brings Sharp Rebukes.

He is Reminded He Has No Influence, and is Bailed Out.

Timothy O'Connell, the ex-Protestant Episcopal clergyman, accused by ten-year-old Dora Weber, of 800 East One Hundred and Sixty-first street, with criminal assault, was held this morning in the Morrisania Police Court in $500 bail, for trial.

Philip Kelly, the well-to-do shoe case manufacturer, of 256 East One Hundred and Sixty-first street, who was arrested on Saturday night, when he was charged with the assault on Dora Weber, was held in $500 bail, for trial.

Mr. O'Connell, who has been since July 1, in court, and testified in his friend's behalf. Mrs. Kelly, who had been sent to the island on a charge of habitual drunkenness, made by her husband and supported by the testimony of the clergyman, was brought to court by Keeper Ryan. This time she was a witness against Mr. O'Connell.

Little Dora Weber told her story in a simple, straight-forward manner. It was a repetition of what has already been printed in "The Evening World," that Mr. O'Connell sent her for beer and then entered her to a room, where he assaulted her. She asked for help, and he told her in the stable of Mr. Kelly, in the rear of the house.

Mrs. Anne Mulcahey, a midwife, living in the same house with Dora Weber's father, and her adopted daughter, Annie Beck, testified that they saw Mr. O'Connell beckon Dora to go into the stable, and frequently saw him send the child for drink to a room, where she was held by her husband's guest, who kept the little girl inside.

A motion by ex-Assemblyman Van Cott, the defendant's lawyer, to dismiss was denied, and Mr. O'Connell was held in $500 bail, for trial. The defendant's lawyer, who had been reprimanded several times by the court for interrupting the proceedings, asked Justice Divver for a glass of water.

"I want to take some medicine," he said. The water was produced, and the clergyman took it, looking at the child, which he washed down with water. After being sworn, he leaned languidly against the wall, and looked at the child, which he washed down with water. After being sworn, he leaned languidly against the wall, and looked at the child, which he washed down with water.

"The charge is a lie, Your Honor," he said, "and would have never been thought of if I had not been compelled to appear against Mr. Kelly, who charged preferred by her husband. It is a lie on the face of it, proved by the fact that the child was not more than a month after the alleged crime to make it."

The defendant's manner disgusted even his counsel, who begged him to answer only the questions put to him. On cross-examination, he admitted having sent the child for beer and receiving the child in the stable, but he denied having assaulted her, and in a madman's way said there was a conspiracy against him.

"Last Summer I asked Your Honor," O'Connell said, "to dismiss Mrs. Kelly from the island. It was Mr. Kelly who did so," said Justice Divver sternly. "I used my influence," persisted the clergyman.

"You had no influence," thundered the Justice, at the same time bringing his hands down on the desk with a bang. Mr. Kelly, who had called O'Connell out when the charge was first made, was asked to remain on the stand, and signed with apparent reluctance.

NEW BRIDGE STATION. In a little while there will be plenty of trains to Brooklyn. A triple line of brick arches is being built on both sides of the New York station of the Brooklyn Bridge. All day a crowd looks down from the promenade at the work.

These arches are to act as foundation supports for two new tracks, which will increase the length of the station from 130 feet, and make it 35 feet wider. The plan is to branch the present single tracks into two double station tracks, and to double the number of trains during the day. By this method two trains may be constantly running, while two others are disgorging passengers.

By the increased length of the station all passengers will be able to get from Park Row, as before, but stairs will be built from at least two of the side streets that end at the bridge abutments.

DRISCOLL CHARGED WITH CAUSING THE DEATH OF SAUL MCGRATH. William Joseph Driscoll, of 122 and Patrick Hagan, of 124 Cherry street, who were arrested on suspicion of murdering John McGrath, a sailor, by the Police No. 3, were arraigned in the Tombs Police Court, this morning.

On the night of Saturday, McGrath was found dying in the hallway of 21 Hamilton street. He died later at Gouverneur Hospital. After hearing the evidence, Justice Ryan held Driscoll for trial and released Hagan.

Long Voyage to California. (By Associated Press.) SAN DIEGO, Cal. Nov. 22.—The British ship Baran, which arrived from London Tuesday, was in company with the American ship Stirling, Capt. Weldon, bound from Philadelphia to San Francisco. The Stirling was forced to go to the Falkland Islands to repair damage. The Baran abandoned the attempt to round the Cape of Good Hope, and crossed the Pacific Ocean, the Stirling being the only ship to reach San Francisco.

Mother and Son Charged with Burglary. Mrs. Anna Beck and her twelve-year-old son, Dora Weber, were held in $500 bail, for trial, on a charge of burglary. The charge was made by the testimony of the child, who was held in $500 bail, for trial, on a charge of burglary.

Immigrants Who Have Wealth. (By Associated Press.) BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Among the immigrants arriving on the steamship Dresden, from Bremen, was a family of four, which had a fortune of $100,000. The head of the family is a Hungarian named Hoffer, who is from Budapest. He is a well-to-do man, and has a large fortune.

Davenport's Case Goes. The case of John A. Davenport's famous iron cage in the Federal Building, are being opened by the Post-Office authorities. The cage was used by Davenport to keep his prisoners in.

Appeal Case Again Adjourned. The case of George Agnew, the Leavenworth man, who is accused of having attempted to escape from the Federal Penitentiary, by cutting through the wall, was again adjourned until next Monday.

POLICE BLACKMAIL.

Patrolman Mulcahey Will Have to Answer Serious Charges.

Tried to Collect Money Because a Cow Was Kept.

He Was All Ready to Retire When This Case Came Up.

Patrolman William L. Mulcahey, of the Twenty-ninth Precinct, who last Wednesday made application to the Police Board for retirement, will have to answer to the Commissioners the serious charge of levying blackmail.

The complaint is Mrs. Annie Allwerth, who lives in One Hundred and Sixty-first street, between Amsterdam and the Boulevard.

Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Allwerth appeared before President Wilson, of the Board of Health, and stated that the accused policeman had on three occasions, obtained money from her by threatening to prosecute her for maintaining a nuisance.

Mrs. Allwerth said that she kept a cow on her premises. Mulcahey, she alleges, called on her three times and exhibited what he represented to be an order from the Board of Health to abate the nuisance said to exist in the cow stable.

He informed her, she says, that any difficulty could be alleviated by the payment of a few dollars. Twice, she alleges, he gave her $2 and the third time $5.

The same afternoon upon which the woman made the complaint Mulcahey was picked out by a patrolman, identified from among half a dozen officers by Mrs. Allwerth and her daughter.

CHINESE KILLED HIM.

War Correspondent Captured and Put to Death.

Japan's Third Army Leaves in the Direction of Nankin.

England Pleased at Japan's Refusal of Our Offer of Mediation.

(By Associated Press.) HIROSHIMA, Nov. 22.—A steamer which has arrived here from Moji reports that no assault had been made upon Port Arthur up to Nov. 19.

Two interpreters and one war correspondent, who were following the Second Japanese Army, have been captured and killed by the Chinese.

YOKOHAMA, Nov. 22.—The Minister of Finance has announced a further war loan of 50,000,000 yen in five, making 40,000,000 yen of the 100,000,000 authorized by Parliament to be raised for war purposes.

The Third Army has left Ujima on board four transports. The destination of this army is not known, but it is rumored that it is intended to operate in the Yang-Tze-Kiang district of China.

The Yang-Tze-Kiang River has a total course of 2,500 to 3,000 miles, and drains into the numerous large affluents all the central provinces of China. It is crossed by the Imperial Canal, and the title of the river is Lake Po-Yang, 45 miles from the sea, beyond which it is navigable for 250 miles. It may be navigated to 200 miles from its mouth by ships of the largest class.

Nankin, the southern capital of China, is situated ninety miles from the sea. Nankin is a city of very extensive trade, and by the great canal, which crosses the Yang-Tze-Kiang River, and the city, it communicates directly with the sea. Nankin is also the residence of a Grand Viceroy, who has authority over the Kiang Provinces. It is a great military depot, and the chief seat of agriculture in the Chinese Empire.

Detering's Mission to Japan in Behalf of Peace. LONDON, Nov. 22.—The English newspapers attach great importance to the mission of Detering, the Commissioner of Imperial Customs at Tien-Tsin, who, as exclusively cabled to The Associated Press, yesterday afternoon, has left China for Japan in order to arrange terms of peace.

The Globe this afternoon, commenting upon Detering's departure for Japan, says that it confirms the reported rejection of the mediation of the United States, as announced exclusively by The Associated Press. The Globe says that this was the course to be expected, "in spite of the Washington reports that the negotiations would be conducted by the American Minister at Tokio."

The Daily News, referring to the same subject, says: "The Peace Commissioner was not sent a moment too soon. But he can hardly hope to reach Japan before the Japanese forces close upon Port Arthur for the last, decisive struggle."
